A Great Success.
 The Galveston-Dallas Weekly News stands pre-eminent as a journalistic success. It does nothing by halves.
 It believes that whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well.
 It is ever on the alert for matter that will interest, instruct and benefit its readers.

Last spring the editor of The Weekly News organized a Columbian class, known to the youthful readers as "Mr. Big Hat's Summer School," the object of which was to awaken in the mind of the young an interest in the early history of America and its development. This home has proven wonderfully successful, and hundreds of children have been led to investigate with renewed interest historical works bearing upon the subject, and their well written letters to The Weekly News bear unmistakable evidence of great benefit and mental improvement to themselves.

The Weekly News also contains an exceedingly interesting department for its lady readers. The articles on fashions, housekeeping and general miscellany are unsurpassed in interest to intelligent lady readers everywhere, and to farmers' wives in particular, who enjoy a good practical, homelike paper.

To the farmers themselves The Weekly News devotes a great deal of space, giving many valuable and timely articles on practical agriculture in the south, a page of interesting news notes, all the leading political and general news of the world and well written editorials on all the leading questions of the day.

No intelligent farmer in Texas can afford to be without The Weekly News.
 It costs but one dollar a year, or less than two cents a week.
 The Dallas or Galveston Weekly News and The Weekly Leader will be sent to your address one year for only $1.50.

The New York Weekly World and the Weekly Leader one year for $1.50.

SHE POISONED MANY
AND WON THE TITLE OF AN AMERICAN BORGIA.

THE WICKED LIFE OF MRS. HENRY MEYER.

Surrounded by luxury she quit her home to reveal in the terrible crimes for which she has been indicted.

HERE WILL
 soon be placed on trial in the criminal courts of New York city a woman who has already earned the title of the American
 Lucretia Borgia.
 Mrs. Henry
 Meyer, wife of the infamous Dr.
 Meyer, stands in the uncomfortable position of having to answer to eight indictments for murder by poison.
 In all of these cases her husband will answer as co-defendant.

Those who have studied the part in them attributed to Mrs. Meyer have no hesitancy in believing her worse than the man with whom she stands charged with murder, not only because of what she is supposed to have done, but because she is a woman.

Still, to look at her, she is a rather frail woman, gentle in appearance, not without a certain refinement that money necessarily brings, she would suggest anything but such a creature.
 True, her mouth is firm, her lips are thin, and, when compressed, show her to have great determination, but otherwise she does not look different from other women of her class.

To her poor little baby, born in a hospital, whose fate she would have
 of what she is supposed to have done,
 but because she is a woman.

Mercy! Mrs. Meyer will need this if, as said before, the charges against her are true, for it is terrible to think of what justice should be done in the case.

A remarkable feature already developed in Mrs. Meyer's case is her refusal to say whether or not she is married to Dr. Meyer. This may be accountable for in two ways. The law does not require a woman to testify against her husband, but if he is not her husband, she may be allowed to turn state's evidence, and not only avoid any risk of losing her own life, but save herself any further trouble about it.

If, as events develop, she concludes not to do this, and she should acknowledge Dr. Meyer as her lawful husband, she might have to confront the charge of being a woman who testified for, after living with him as his wife and being generally known as such, she became the wife of one of Dr. Meyer's alleged victims, Ludwig Brandt. When he obligingly died, his widow resumed her former relations with Dr. Meyer.

These were begun in Chicago about the year 1888. Mrs. Meyer was then a Miss Marie Dreesen, the daughter of a well-to-do German tradesman, who estimated to be worth about $50,000.
 Marie Dreesen has been well brought up, and was not a woman above the average in intelligence, just the kind to yield readily to the stronger will and influence of such a man as Dr.
 Meyer.

He is by no means attractive in appearance, his cold, white eyes, like those of Jesse Pomeroy, who was convicted years ago for torturing children, are not the least calculated to arouse any deep feeling of affection in a woman, but from the time they were first riveted on Marie Dreesen her life was changed, and she was soon afterward known as Mrs. Meyer.

One day her father began to fail in health, and continuing to grow worse, a friend suggested to him that possibly his life might be insured. Upon investigation it was found that this was so, that a policy had been taken out in the Germania Life Insurance company in favor of his daughter, Mrs.
 Meyer.

Dr. Meyer was arrested on a charge of forgery in using Mr. Dreesen's name, but was acquitted on technicality. Mrs. Meyer had pleaded with her father for the man supposed to be her husband. Mr. Dreesen relented and spent about $4,000 in trying to acquit Dr. Meyer.

After this Dr. and Mrs. Meyer are supposed to have begun their traffic in servant girls. These girls were always selected from among the poor, ignorant Germans, and as soon as they entered the employ of Dr. and Mrs.
 Meyer were treated by them with the utmost tenderness. As is the case with many foreign families in the same social position as the Meyers, these servants ate at the same table with their employers, who made a great deal of them.

The Meyers would represent themselves to one of these girls as being very well off, and would say they intended returning to Germany in a short time, when they would take her with them. This naturally pleased the girl and ended at the doctor and his supposed wife to her.

The next move the former was supposed to make was to tell the girl be-
